Involvement

Research shows that when parents are involved with their children's education, students earn better grades, score higher on standardized tests, have better attendance records and show a more positive attitude toward school.

1. Make sure your child attends school every day on time!
2. Attend parent-teacher conferences and Title I events!
3. Make sure your child reads for 20 to 30 minutes every day (with you is awesome)!
4. Contact the teacher with questions or concerns!
5. Provide study space in the home!
6. Volunteer in your child's school or through PTO!
